Market comment

In February, global equity markets continued their volatile path, mostly ending the month down thus extending their year-to-date losses. Gold has been an exception in commodities, rallying strongly for a second month. US Treasuries continued to provide protection to investors. Markets are expected to exhibit continued volatility in the context of the uncertain global macroeconomic picture.

The EPP Strategy was up 3.65% in February, bringing the YTD return to 1.78%. All but one sub-strategies were positive. US equities contributed 0.55% whereas the World strategy was negative with -1.03%. The gold vs. currencies strategy contributed 2.66%, and lastly, the safe haven long-term Treasuries contributed 1.47%.

The portfolio fared well, owing to its robust and complementary construction with diversified risk exposures across assets and strategies. Going into March, the models signalled only minor allocation changes, rotating some of the US equity exposure being the only notable change. A European sector rotation strategy has been finalised and will be added to the mix in Q2 2016, further adding diversification to the basket.

Investment strategy

The strategy pursues a quantitative, rule-based investment process that adaptively allocates between stocks, bonds, commodities and cash instruments on a monthly basis to achieve a robust risk/return profile. Each of the asset classes is optimized individually applying a range of proprietary trading and allocation rules. Cross-correlations of instruments and asset classes are accounted for to achieve a significantly lower overall portfolio volatility.

Amongst the methodologies applied are various ranking and rotation algorithms across sectors, industries, markets and asset classes globally. The methodologies deployed have been thoroughly tested across a broad set of economic conditions. The strategy is designed as a diversified all-weather multi-asset strategy generating robust performance while mitigating downside risk during severe market crashes.
